

BRITISH FLAPPERS
CAN'T LAND JOBS

Erstwhile Government Clerks
Are Turned Down By Reputable Firms.

LONDON, Oct. 14.—Educated and potentially good material for business offices, thousands of "flappers," the one-time clerks and tea drinkers of government offices, are today jobless and with little hope of bettering their condition.

These "flappers" are not as idling and inefficient as they have been painted by an opposition press which threw them on to the screen of publicity in the months after the armistice was signed as horrible examples of "waste in high places." They are not as a rule, thoroughly trained for business, but they are intelligent and have gained much knowledge of the business world in their respective offices.

But the bungling "red tape" methods of the government have been so long held up to public scorn that these girls, who a few short months ago were praised as patriots, are today passed up by employers as unfit for employment. The idea is that they have been spoiled for any real business future by their contact with the "dilly and dally" tactics of bureaucracy.

Would Tackle Anything.

Inquiries at employment agencies reveal they are willing to tackle almost anything—except teaching and domestic service.

A girl with a university degree is managing waitresses in a West End tea room.

A doctor's daughter who drove a brougham for a big firm during the war is looking for similar employment.

Many are taking up millinery. Others have gone into shops as assistants, with the intention of working up to be buyers or managers.

Still others are tackling the "risky game" of opening little tea shops.

"Women generally will not take a post which offers less than $15 a week," is the report of one employment agency manager.

"They frequently come in pairs and demand positions in the same establishment. The man shortage, the surplus woman problem, if you care to call it that, has thrown the girls together. Their standards as to what they want in men 'pals' is higher than it used to be, and with so many men gone and so many still in service the girls have come to adopt girl 'pals'.

By two and two they go in search of business positions and likely as not refuse a single opening, however good, if there is not a chance for the two of them.

Can't Stay Home.

"So many of these girls can't bear to 'stick at home' as they did before the war brought them into Whitehall offices. Consequently many of them are downtown, in the tea rooms and hotels, where they have tea or lunch, smoke and gossip over old times.

"It's very hard on the girls, this prejudice against government office training, for many of them have good stuff in them. While some of the offices undoubtedly were lax, many of them were understaffed and most of the girls learned to work accurately and quickly under pressure.

"We are advising them to overcome their handicaps by training for specific work, and hundreds of them are doing so."

ENDS LIFE ON R. R. TRACK.

GALLAGHER, Neb., Oct. 14.—Frank Worthen, of Clinton, N. J., committed suicide by lying beside the railroad track, placing his head on the rail, and permitting an Union Pacific fast train to run over his neck. Before committing suicide Worthen wrote a will, in which he left $30,000 and real estate in Clinton to a sister.

ROOSTER QUIETS
ACTIVE VOLCANO

Black Chicken Thrown Into Crater and Flow of Lava Ceases.

HILO, Island of Hawaii, Oct. 14.—Owners of coal black game cocks are keeping out all eyes to see that the chicken-house door is locked securely every night.

And that's all because the volcano of Kilauea is now the most active it has been for thirty-five years.

Six months ago Kilauea was spitting away in its mile-wide bowl, of burning molten rock, with the level of the flaming crimson sea of boiling lava 900 feet from the top of the crater.

The night that Secretary of the Navy Daniels and his party paid Kilauea a visit—the latter part of August—the level of the seething lava lake was about fifty feet below the crater's top.

Several overflows already have occurred. A cone which once jutted 500 feet above the crater's top has melted away into the sea of fire. Two hours after the Secretary and his party left the volcano the rock wall between the main crater and a second smaller one, caved in, joining the craters.

And Kilauea itself is going strong. As to the connection of all this with coalblack game cocks? Oh, that's very simple.

Many years ago, when the islands first were becoming a white man's land, Kilauea became angry. It roared and hissed and sputtered and the ground shook. Then the lava overflowed and moved slowly down the mountain-side toward Hilo.

The native Hawaiians had been Christians but a comparatively short time. Their fright knew no bounds, for the island legends were full of the tales of what Kilauea did when Madame Pele, the goddess who lived in Kilauea's crater, became angry.

So the residents of the island fled from the volcano and toward Hilo.

Then they danced. But that was ineffective.

Finally, forgetting their Christianity for a time, they sent a party by canoe to Honolulu to consult a few remaining priests of the days when they all worshipped the strange South Sea deities.

"Throw a black rooster into the lava flow," was the advice they brought back.

The sleekest, shiniest cock on the island of Hawaii was picked for the sacrifice, and while the maidens danced, the warriors cast the squealing bird into the base of the lava flow.

An hour the flow had stopped. Madame Pele, the most feared goddess of the island, evidently had been satisfied with a chicken dinner.

Americans, residents of the island believe that if there is ever another big lava flow, coal black roosters will come into demand once more.

GERMANS HOPE FOR TOY
TRADE BOOM WITH U. S.

BERLIN, Oct. 14.—The "made-in-Germany" toy industry will come into its own again, according to the hope and belief expressed by Economic Minister Schmidt following his visit to the Leipzig industrial fair.

Schmidt pointed out that this branch of industry was particularly well represented. Porcelain and glass lines were likewise displayed extensively, but everywhere the minister heard the complaint that lack of coal lack of rawstuffs and unfavorable exchange were making the German industrial position difficult.

One big American shoe house was represented at the fair, and closed many orders despite the high prices—in marks—demanded for the product.

Commerce Body Backs Plan
For Non-Equipment
Y. M. C. A.

ALEXANDRIA, Va., Oct. 14.—The establishment of a non-equipment Young Men's Christian Association in this city has been endorsed by the civic bureau of the Alexandria Chamber of Commerce, and a committee of fifteen business men will be appointed in a few days to carry out the plan.

M. L. Rippey, district secretary, and E. G. Caster, county work secretary, are in Alexandria in the interest of the proposition. The course proposed includes physical, social, educational, and religious activities. The various Protestant churches and church buildings will be used.

Capt. Paulo Tucumeli and his wife and children, of Rome, Italy, are visiting Signora Tucumeli's grandmother, Mrs. Kate Taylor, at her home, 120 South Fairfax street, this city. Captain Tucumeli is an officer of artillery, and spent nearly four years on the Italian front, receiving several French and Italian decorations for bravery. He is particularly interested in commercial and financial relations between Italy and the United States, and will report his observations while in this country to his home government.

Dr. E. A. Gorman, former health officer of this city, has returned from New York, where he spent a month's vacation. While in New York Dr. Gorman attended a number of surgical clinics.
